

Our School Values

Our curriculum is an important means by which we develop the values of our school in our pupils during their time at Longshaw. When planning and delivering lessons, teachers give attention to those school values which are relevant to the unit of work. Our aim is to encourage positive attitudes to learning, to ourselves as individuals and to other members of our community.

Compassion – adopting a caring attitude towards the difficulties of others.

Honesty – truthful acceptance of all situations.

Aspiration – to achieve as much as possible in every endeavour.

Respect – paying due regard to the needs and feelings of others.

Teamwork – the ability to collaborate to good effect.

Enthusiasm – the keen desire to take on new challenges.

Responsibility – seeking to achieve a positive effect from our individual actions.

Determination – the will to succeed when the task is difficult.

British Values

Within our curriculum and our general ethos, attention is also given to the development of positive attitudes to democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect and tolerance towards those with differing faiths and lifestyles.

Teachers give attention to these specific areas when planning and delivering units of work. All adults in school promote these values when working individually and when interacting with colleagues in all contexts.
